Men at Work

Men at Work

This is the second season for this rough, tough and charming group of construction workers. These masters of the trade can build you anything you might possibly want... just make sure your insurance is paid up!

Their working-class charm and irresistible personalities will make you quickly forget that they're only three weeks behind schedule!

There's the hot-headed foreman who becomes as gentle as a lamb when his good-looking daughter is around...

The hapless young apprentice who seems to be the butt of every joke, and the old pro who can't seem to avoid getting in everyone's way...

And last but not most definitely not least is Gerda, who far more resembles a prostitute than the boss of this wild crew!

It's friendship, rather than cement, that holds this bunch together... and whatever the job is, they'll get it done right... just as long as the beer doesn't run out!
