Deadly Harvest

Sports student Frank surprises his young wife Marisa with a special present: two tickets to South Africa for their honeymoon. Their exciting trip, through that country's breathtaking landscape and fascinating animal world, suddenly takes a dire turn when they are ambushed and kidnapped directly in the vicinity of their hotel.

While Frank is quickly drugged and helpless, Marisa manages to escape. Her terror becomes even more pronounced when, frantically reaching the safety of the hotel, she is threatened and almost shot by the hotel manager.

Fleeing through the night, Marisa flags down a taxi... but the kidnapers are following directly behind. When the cabdriver is shot, she and her fellow passenger Serafina escape through crowded alleys and duck into an illegal bar. The kidnapers, in the guise of paramedics, spread the word that Marisa is guilty of murdering a policeman. With a substantial award being offered for her capture, every shady character in town is now on her tail. But Serafina's husband, Biko, refuses to leave Marisa to her fate.

Wearing disguises, Marisa and Biko check in to the Safari Lodge. It's not long before the manager attempts to sedate the pair and calls in the "paramedics". Only now does Marisa learn the terrible truth: the Safari Lodge is a trap run by an international crime syndicate that is in the "organ harvest" trade - the illegal business of dealing in
