Alpine Clinic: Feelings of the Heart

Alpine Clinic: Feelings of the Heart

Against the breathtaking backdrop of the Alps, a talented doctor must fight not only to save the life of a little girl, but also to keep the woman that he loves.

As Chief resident at the Alpine Clinic, Dr. Daniel Guth enjoys life with his girlfriend and colleague Miriam and her young son Frederick. But just as Daniel and Miriam begin solidifying plans for their future, a new man arrives in their alpine town. Viktor, Frederick's real father, has taken a job as a helicopter pilot with the Mountain Rescue Service, and his sudden appearance threatens the happiness of Daniel's new family. Meanwhile, several complicated cases arise at the Alpine Clinic that demand Daniel's urgent attention. There is the case of the famous writer Emily von Thaden, tired of her own life, whose fate attracts Daniel's friend Max, the lonely gamekeeper. In the meantime, Daniel is finally able to identify the arterial disease affecting Tessa, the daughter of Miriam's unhappy friend Kerstin. Tessa requires an immediate operation, but unable to cope with her parents' continual arguing, she runs away from the clinic. A wild race for Tessa's survival begins...

... a race that requires Viktor's help. Will Daniel be able to call a truce with his rival in order to save the life of a dangerously ill little girl?
