Christmas Actually

After 3,000 years of endless work, the completely disillusioned angel Uriel arrives in Berlin shortly before the chaotic Christmas season. His job? To again offer hope and encouragement to the unfortunate.

His jaded view of life is changed when he suddenly runs into Laura, who despite being blind, works as a light sculpture artist. She is the first human being who is able to recognize and even touch him. Attracted by this unusual woman, Uriel quickly forgets his duties as the Christmas angel. Instead of offering guidance to those who have recently died, Laura receives his full attention.

Uriel finally realizes that the only way for him to really be together with Laura is to become human. And therefore, he must take a daring leap - from a skyscraper.

Unfortunately, Laura has now lost interest in him, which means he must win her over as a normal man. After giving the fallen angel another chance, Laura and Uriel begin a wonderful life together.

Everything seems to be perfect until Laura is accidentally shot during a jewelry store robbery. Begging God to save Laura, Uriel offers to sacrifice his own life for hers.
