Cinderella for a Night

Marie, a single mother, is determined to continue in the footsteps of her late father by taking over his bread manufacturing company - despite the fact that the business is close to bankruptcy.

At her father's funeral, his ghost appears, but only visible to Marie. It seems that before his soul is able to find eternal peace, he'll have to find some way to pay all the earthly debts that he has left behind. But under no circumstances whatsoever should Marie sell the business, and especially not to the "cutthroat" businessman Peter Krieger.

Marie attempts to get more money from the bank, but unfortunately her prospects of getting another loan aren't very good.

At the same time, in the same building, Peter Krieger is close to executing the takeover of a huge luxury food chain that's worth a half a billion euros! Although unscrupulous in his business dealings, Peter still happens to be a very attractive man. When Marie receives a phone call that her son has been hospitalized, she rushes out of the bank and nearly runs into Peter's car at the very next intersection. The near-accident prompts a fierce argument between the two, but at the same time they find themselves attracted to each other.

When they meet again in the hospital shortly afterwards, Peter's fascination with Marie is obviously growing... he has actually fallen in love with her. Unfortunately he doesn't even know her name. The only vague clue he has to the identity of the mysterious and beautiful woman is the pair of gloves that she had left in his car...
