My New Sexy Lover

My New Sexy Lover

When Verena catches her husband Christian in bed with his lawyer Claudia, she files for divorce. A huge clothing manufacturer, Christian hands over the established but almost bankrupt knitwear department to Verena as a part of their divorce settlement, while he maintains control of the company's successful flagship. To rescue her business, Verena races to Berlin hoping to get help from the influential investor Estelle - and has a car accident. She is given a lift by the very attractive Leon, who tells her he is a personal stylist, rather than revealing his real profession - being a "Dream Men" strippers.

With the help of Leon's charm, Verena succeeds in interesting Estelle in her knitwear collection. While they are preparing for a meeting with Estelle, Christian and Claudia show up in Berlin. They attempt to convince Verena to sell her part of the company, because an investor is offering € 10,000,000 for the entire business.

Leon tries to seduce Verena, and although he finally confesses to being a stripper, Verena cannot resist his advances and they become lovers. Christian tells Verena more about the offer, but she is confident she can stay independent with Estelle's support - which she does get with Leon's help. When Leon asks for a chance to work for her and to become a part of her life, Verena turns him down, unable to imagine sharing her life with a stripper. Eventually, Christian decides to stop pressuring Verena into selling, but Claudia continues negotiating with the investors behind Christian's back. She is determined to seal the deal.

Claudia hires Leon's "Dream Men" for a special performance and invites Estelle, who recognizes Leon and immediately withdraws her commitment. Verena is devastated, but even worse: Leon refuses to meet her after the show. However, she is not ready to surrender either her business or her love life - especially now that she realizes how much she wants to be with Leon...
