Revenge

The driving instructor Gernot Lohmann lives a quiet life with his wife Ina and their two children Björn and Nicole, but their peaceful existence is about to experience a major disruption...

It all begins with a car accident. A woman, bleeding heavily from a gunshot, stumbles across the path of Lohmann's car. Recognizing her, he brings the woman to his home instead of delivering her to a hospital emergency room, but he's unable to save her. With her last dying gasp she warns him: the dangerous drug dealer Alexandro Guzman has been released from prison and is out for revenge...

Ina finds a gold necklace in the garage, and in order to quiet her jealousies, Lohmann is forced to tell her the truth. He confesses to having led a double life. Until recently, he was working undercover tracking down drug dealers and weapon smugglers in South America. Ina is outraged to discover the lie that had been hidden throughout their years of living together. With no time for explanations, the family is forced to flee for their safety to a small cabin belonging to one of their friends. But the young Nicole makes a terrible mistake. Sneaking away from the house to secretly meet a Latino friend she had just gotten to know, she unknowingly places her family in great danger. The new friend is none other than Guzman's nephew, and because Nicole's cell phone is turned on, the drug dealer's gang now has the means of tracing the family back to their hidden cabin...
