

Romantic Comedy

The Man Women Want

The Man Women Want

Does a guy really have to be a rugged hunk who thinks he's God's gift to humanity? Is treating a woman like dirt to excite and entice her the best way to win her heart? At first, the polite and educated Max is unwilling to agree with these ideas from his best friend Stupps. But he begins to see that HIS way, cooking and being a good listener, hasn't been much help in netting himself a woman. When he blows it with Miriam, who returns to her trashy ex-boyfriend, Stupps attempts to convince Max to try something new - making himself over into a super macho.

It's only after Max falls in love with his new colleague Annika that he lets his buddy guide him along the road to alpha malehood. A fresh look and a cool tattoo are just the beginning; the new, hardcore Max really needs an attitude adjustment more than anything. Miriam is the first subject of his experiment and the new image easily wins her over. When Max manages to succeed with Annika as well, Miriam refuses to let him go and all of a sudden he's getting more affection than he knows what to do with...

The Man Women Want

Romantic Comedy

Movie, 1 x 90'

Directed by Christoph Schrewe

Starring Marco Girnth, Johann von Bülow, Julia Thurnau, Liane Forestieri

Produced by Studio Hamburg Produktion für Film & Fernsehen GmbH for ProSieben in association with SevenOne International